Theresa Szczurek joins Western Colorado University board

Boulder, Colo. (January 14, 2021) – Technology and Management Solutions, a management consulting firm, announces that Theresa M. Szczurek, CEO, has been appointed by Governor Jared Polis to the Western Colorado University Board of Trustees. Most recently, Szczurek served on Governor Polis' cabinet as the State of Colorado Chief Information Officer and Executive Director of the Governor's Office of Information Technology.

The Board of Trustees makes policy and provides oversight for the operations of the institution. This new trustee appointment enhances the representation of women on the board, which now comprises seven men and four women. Annelise Mae Loevlie, founder and CEO, Golden-based Icelantic Skis was also appointed. Both four-year appointments began December 31, 2020. “Education is a game changer. I am impressed by the university’s strides in both engineering and business, and by its entrepreneurial spirit. I like the initiatives that Western is pursuing with STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics) and with connections to other institutions. There is a big need for more people in the workforce with a technology foundation,” said Szczurek.
